GLEN CLARK

FATHER OF: JOSEPH MALCOM CLARK
GRANDFATHER OF: WILLIAM LESLIE CLARKE
GREAT GRANDFATHER OF: PHILLIP EWING CLARKE, SR.
GREAT GREAT GRANDFATHER OF: PHILLIP EWING CLARKE JR.

Glen Clark, age 29, is found in the Census of 1860 living in Perry County, Mississippi with wife Mary (Mary Jane Chatam), age 20 and two children. The two children listed are: Malcom (misspelled "Mecal") age 5, and Angus, age 1. Both children are listed as white males born in the state of Mississippi. Glen Clark is listed as a white male who can read but cannot write and states his occupation as being that of a farmer. The 1860 Census of Perry County, Mississippi, states that Glen Clark was born somewhere in Mississippi. Wife, Mary (Mary Jane Chatam) is listed as being a mulatto female who can read but cannot write, and who was born in the state of Louisiana. According to the ages listed on the 1860 Census of Perry Co., Ms., of the Glen Clark household, year of birth for each are as follows: Glen Clark born circa 1831, Mary (Mary Jane Chatam) born circa 1840, Malcom (Mecal) born circa 1855 and Angus born circa 1859.

Listed on the census directly below Glen Clark, but of a different household are four more Clark's. Listed are: Amy Clark (a white female, age 70, born in South Carolina, who can read and write, listed as head of household and lists her occupation as being a farmer, possibly a widow), Lenora Clark (a white female, age 40, born in South Carolina, who can read but cannot write), Celia Clark (a white female, age 30, born in Mississippi, who can both read and write) and Melissia (a white female, age 27, born in Mississippi, who can also read and write). According to the ages listed on the 1860 Census of Perry County, Mississippi, the year of birth for each of this household is as follows: Amy Clark born circa 1790, Lenora Clark born circa 1820, Celia Clark born circa 1830 and Melissia Clark born 1833.

It is my opinion that Amy Clark is the mother of Glen Clark, and if so then Glen Clark would be the brother of Lenora, Celia and Melissia. That would put Glen Clark being born between Celia and Melissa. The following speculation is as follows: Amy would have been 30 at the time of Lenora's birth, 40 at the time of Celia's birth, 41 at the time of Glen's birth and 43 at the time of Melissia's birth. Amy's husband is not listed in the 1860 Census of Perry County, Mississippi.

During the Census of 1870 in Perry County, Mississippi, Glen Clark, wife Mary and five children are found. Children listed are as follows: Malcom (age 16), Angus (misspelled "Anguish", age 12), Annie (age 10), Norman (age 7) and Margaret (age 4). This census states that the following people cannot read nor write: Mary (Mary Jane Chatam), Malcom, Angus or Annie. There is a lot of discrepancy found about Mary. First it states that she is 26, of course that's understandable. Even in 1992 it is hard to get a female to give her correct age, especially as she gets older. It also states that she was a white female who was born in Mississippi whereas the 1860 Census of Perry County Mississippi stated that she was a mulatto female born in the state of Louisiana. All other information stated on the 1870 Census of Perry County, Mississippi, seems to be consistent. According to the census we find Glen, wife Mary, and five children living on Thompson's Creek (or in the vicinity thereof) in Augusta (which is now New Augusta), Mississippi located in Perry County in 1870.

on 9 December 1810 and came to Macomb about 1837. He resided here until 1881 when he went to Kansas with his wife and daughter Euphrasia, where he has lived since. He was in business for 44 years in Macomb. His son, George H. Hall, moved to Kansas in 1880. He was buried Tuesday in the Cemetery (apparently at Oswego). (Thursday, 31 May 1888)

HAMMER, Nancy, wife of J. E. D. Hammer, died Saturday and was buried Sunday at the Pennington's Point Cemetery. (Later item:) She died on October 2nd at Pennington's Point. She was the third child of John and Jemima (Houser) Stewart of Pennington's Point. She was born on 18 February 1812 near Tompkinsville, Monroe County, Kentucky and was married on 15 April 1830. She came with her husband to Pennington's Point in 1834 and they have resided there ever since. She was the mother of 10 children, 7 of whom survive - 4 sons and 3 daughters, along with the husband. She was buried in the cemetery near her home. (Thursday, 6 October 1887)

HARLAN, William M. died at his home in New Salem Twp. on May 22nd, aged about 57 years. He was born in Monroe County, Kentucky, the son of Wesley and Nancy (Greenup) Harlan. As a small boy, he came with his parents to the southeastern part of McDonough County where he grew up, married, and raised a family and died. His wife was a daughter of Major Stephen Yocom. They had 7 children. The funeral was yesterday with burial in the Pennington's Point Cemetery. (Thursday, 24 May 1888)

HEAD, William B. was buried in the Head Cemetery on the farm of his father on Tuesday. Nearly all of the family is buried there. He was the son of James and Isabel Head and was born in Washington County, Kentucky. As a youth, he came to Illinois with his parents and a large family of brothers and sisters, arriving in Emmet Twp. on Christmas Day, 1832. He married Miss Miller and afterwards lived in the same neighborhood until about the time of the Civil War, when he moved to Minnesota for several years. He then returned and lived in Emmet and Sciota Twp. until 2 years ago when he moved to Iowa where he was living when he died. He was the father of 17 children and was the brother of Thomas Head of Sciota. (Thursday, 1 Mar 1888)

HELMS, Mrs. Mary Ann, wife of Roland B. Helms, died in Macomb on July 27th, aged 54 years. She was born in Rockingham, West Virginia in 1832 and lived there until grown. Her maiden name was Ford. She was married in 1852 to Roland B. Helms who survives. Two years after their marriage, they came west and settled in Warren County, living there for 20 years before moving to Missouri to remain ther In 1876 they settled in Macomb. She had 6 children, 5 boys and 1 girl, all are now married except for 1 son and the daughter. The funeral was at the Methodist Church of which she was a member, yesterday, with burial in Macomb's Oakwood Cemetery. Jos. Helms of Lincoln, Nebraska is her son. (Thursday, 29 July 1886)

HUNT, Dr. I. B. died at his home in Colchester on Saturday and was buried Monday in the Bean burial yard. He was an early settler of this county, coming here with his parents who settled on Section 14 in 1831. He was born in Washington County, East Tennessee on 30 November 1812; so he was 19 years old when he came to the county and was aged 73 years, 5 months, and 9 days when he died. In 1843 he went to Huntsville, Alabama to study medicine with his uncle, Harrison Bacon. While there, he married Miss Martha A. Cole on 8 January 1846. He practiced medicine there until 1849 when he came to Middletown, McDonough County. In 1856 he moved to Colchester. He was the father of 7 children, 4 of whom are living and reside in Colchester: John, William, Ann, and Mrs. Lyndal.

JEFFERSON HUNT

Jefferson Hunt was born October 15, 1817, and died June 22, 1863, in a hospital at Vicksburg, MS, just twelve days before the surrender. When he died he had $13.00 in his possession.

He enlisted November 24, 1862, at Leakesville, MS, in the Third Mississippi Cavalry Co. B under Captain Fairley and S. Green. Jefferson was the son of Rev. Thomas C. Hunt, a Baptist preacher for thirty years. According to the headstone, Rev. Hunt was born March 18, 1793, in Georgia and died February 17, 1857, and is buried in Section 27 at Leaf, MS. He married Margaret <sup>Sgt.</sup> ~~Rester~~, who was born about 1800 in Georgia and died after 1860—1870.

On October 15, 1840, Jefferson married Nancy Herring, who was born July 20, 1820, and died October 8, 1866. ~~I believe~~ she is the daughter of Samuel Herring of Perry County, who was born in 1795, and Susan Hinton, who was born in 1796. They had eleven children, which are listed below:

1. Mary Ann Hunt born Wednesday, August 11, 1841, and married June 22, 1859, to Malcolm McLendon
2. Piety Azaline Hunt born Saturday, November 19, 1842, and married February 28, 1867, to John Jefferson Ball
3. A son born dead on August 9, 1844.
4. Nancy Hunt born Friday, July 24, 1845, and married October 11, 1860, to Martin Cochran
5. Jefferson M. Hunt born Tuesday, June 22, 1847, and died January 12, 1849.
6. Louisa Hunt born Sunday, May 27, 1849, and married May 16, 1865, to Hansford Breland
7. George A. Hunt born Monday, July 12, 1852, and died October 31, 1861
8. Fanny Hunt born Wednesday, November 29, 1854
9. Susan Hunt born Monday, December 21, 1857
10. Lilly Ellen Hunt born Friday, July 6, 1860, and died August 19, 1862
11. Columbia Hunt born November 5, 1862

The 1870 Census shows that Fanny Hunt was living with Roderic and Martha McLeod. Susan Hunt was living with Malcolm and Mary McLendon. It also listed Columbia Hunt living with John and Piety Ball.

John T. Hunt, born in Jones County, April 1, 1842, son of Alexander J. Hunt and Lucinda Beasley was reared on the farm receiving his early education at Mt. Vernon High School.

On June 29th, 1861 he enlisted in the Barnesville Blues under Capt. G. M. McDowell. The Blues became part of the 3rd Battalion, Ga. Inf., commanded by Col. M. A. Stovall. After fighting in eastern Tenn., guarding bridges between Knoxville and Bristol, Tenn., and in August of 1862, they participated in the battle of Richmond. Sgt. Hunt was made a first Lieut. in the fall of '62, and on Dec. 31, 1862 in the battle of Murfreesboro was seriously wounded by a minnie ball which struck a metal button over his heart which saved his life but drove the button in the flesh causing an extremely deep and painful wound. cover and later fought at Hoover's Gap, Tenn, and all in north Ga., Dalton, Resaca, Dallas, Kennesaw Mt., Atlanta. He was wounded in the face, and while carrying dispatches to Gen. W. H. T. Walker, had his horse shot from under him, got another horse and delivered his message to Walker just before he fell in battle. He was paroled at Greensboro. He returned to Ga., and always kept the Confederate flag which he carried through the war.

Mr. Hunt had two children by his first wife Mattie Hightower, dau. of J. M. Hightower. In 1879 he mar. a second time to Mrs. Addie F. Doris, dau. of W. H. Chambers.

James L. Hunt, son of Alexander Hunt and Lucinda Beasley, born Sept. 10, 1844. He was in the same 3rd Ga. Inf. with his brother, John T. Hunt. He was wounded at Murfreesboro, Tenn., the left hand being shattered for life. He fought under Gen. John B. Hood at Franklin and Nashville, and surrendered at Greensboro after Lee's surrender. He married Elizabeth M. dau. of W. R. Murphy, who died in 1884 leaving two sons and a daughter. In 1886 he mar. Alice, dau. of Richard Wootten. They had two daughters. James Hunt's gallant record as a soldier is a great inheritance to his children. After the war, both brothers lived in Barnesville, Ga.

cheerfully attested by brothers, husband and children. No Confederate soldier ever came within her presence, who did not recognize her allegiance to the cause and her devotion to all who wore the gray. The bonnie blue flag was the ensign under which her earnest and most ardent affections were enlisted—a true "daughter of the Confederacy." Moreau Stuart Humphreys was born at Glen Sade, December 17, 1849. Too young to join the army, his school days were cast amid the wild checkered scenes of neutral-ground warfare, where friend and foe held alternate sway. After the war he attended college at Greensboro, Ala., and later at Oxford, Miss. Returning home, he became a cotton planter, and is now living on his plantation in Louisiana. He inherited from his father a strong taste for field sports, and became, like him, a superb shot and an ardent and successful sportsman. His pointer, Tyler, is entitled to be joined with his master in this history, as he had on many a field and at many field trials given the names of both to song and story. John Cobun Humphreys, Jr., was born June 5, 1850; died May 3, 1866. Named for his father, possessed of his heart and head, the promise of a bright manhood was unfulfilled from his early death. James Leon Humphreys was born April 19, 1852, at Glen Sade, and died December 8, 1888, at San Antonio, Tex. Stop for a moment, passerby, and reflect upon the memory of a perfect man. If such there be, such was this blameless life. Monuments of stone or brass reaching the skies could tell no more. He was a model child, a ripe scholar, a learned lawyer, a Christian gentleman. He graduated at the Kentucky military institute, where he was lieutenant of his company, and in law at Ann Arbor, Mich. He began his practice at St. Louis, Mo. When there but a short time he was elected first lieutenant in a company commanded by a son of John C. Breckinridge, and in this capacity assisted at the head of his company to quell the riots of 1876. On account of his failing health he moved to San Antonio and lived there until the tomb enfolded the form of this most noble and perfect Christian gentleman. "None knew him but to love him. None named him—but to praise." Blount Stuart Humphreys was born November 5, 1855, at Glen Sade, and died at Louisville, Ky., April 5, 1891, while attending medical lectures. He was the youngest child; his a brilliant brain, a generous heart, a tempestuous bosom, a sad, tempest-tossed life.

"O death, where is thy sting?
O grave, where is thy victory?"

George F. Hunt (deceased). Nature seems to have intended Mr. Hunt for a long and more than ordinarily useful life, but, alas for human hopes and expectations, while just in the meridian of life his career was closed forever. If industry, hard work and ceaseless activity could accomplish anything, then Mr. Hunt was bound to make a success of his life, for in him were found all the characteristics mentioned, and he deserved more than ordinary credit for the handsome home he secured for himself and family. He was born in Jefferson county, Miss., October 2, 1827, his father, David Hunt, being one of the pioneers and most prominent men of the county (see sketch of Dunbar Hunt). George F. Hunt was given superior advantages in his boyhood, and after graduating from Oakland college, he, on October 10, 1848, was married to Miss Anna Watson, the ceremony being performed by the president of Oakland college. Mrs. Hunt is a daughter of James Watson and a sister of Maj. A. C. Watson, a sketch of whom appears in this volume. She was born in the county in which she is now residing, but received her education in Adams and Claiborne counties, being a graduate of Mar City institute of Natchez, Miss. After their marriage Mr. Hunt located on his plantation seven miles from Fayette, his beautiful, commodious and comfortable home being known as Huntley, and here he and his wife dispensed hospitality with a liberal hand to their numerous friends. Mr. Hunt was one of the wealthiest and most successful planters and business men of the county, and besides his home estate owned another large plantation and was the owner of a number of slaves. As a manager he was exceptionally shrewd and far seeing, and all his energies were devoted to improving his place and making those about him comfortable and happy. Although he was the owner of slaves he was a strong Union man during the Civil war; was bitterly opposed to secession, firmly believing that the Confederacy could not long withstand the force of the Federal army. He, however, did not live to see the fulfillment of his predictions, for he died September 3, 1863, having been an active and prominent member of the Presbyterian church. His business relations were extensive and honorable, and his loss was keenly felt by all who knew him. His record as a public and private citizen are alike untarnished, and in all the affairs of life he bore himself in an upright manner, and was recognized as a man of true worth. He was liberal in his support of the church and educational institutions of all kinds, and it is probable that no man was a more earnest advocate of right principles than he. Although the property was left in rather a bad condition by the war, Mrs. Hunt immediately took the helm, and in time, by exceptionally fine business ability, steered her affairs into a safe port, being now in excellent circumstances. Her beautiful home is situated midway between Fayette and Rodney, and here she endeavors to make her life a useful one and to follow the teachings of the golden rule. Mrs. Hunt reared four of her children to maturity: David Hunt, who died September 10, 1878, was the deceased husband of Anna Baldwin, and left three children; Mattie Hunt, who died January 16, 1888, married first Edward B. Moore, of Claiborne county, Miss., and afterward Emmett Newton, and left three children; Abijah Hunt is a planter of Sharkey county, Miss.; James Hunt, who died November 20, 1880, was twenty-two years of age, and was a graduate of the University of Michigan, of Ann Arbor, was a bright and promising young man. Four children died in early childhood.

Dunbar Hunt. For many years, or since being connected with the affairs of Jefferson county, Miss., Mr. Hunt has enjoyed the reputation of being not only an able financier and a talented and highly educated gentleman, but one noted for honorable, upright dealing and seems to have been admirably fitted by nature for the calling of a planter. He has kept the name he bears, which has descended to him from a long line of illustrious and honored ancestry, pure in the sight of God and man. The first of the family of whom he has any knowledge was Ralph Hunt, who came with a party of seven from England. He settled at Newtown, Long Island, N. Y., about the year 1650, and became a man of some historic renown. He succeeded in accumulating considerable means, and of this donated a considerable portion for a church site on Long Island, and in many other ways did much to make his name honored by his descendants, who ~~have a clear~~ genealogical record of the family back to his day. David Hunt, the father of Dunbar Hunt, was born, reared and educated near the town of Ringoes, Hunterdon county, N. J., not far from Trenton, and when a young man determined to see what Dame Fortune had in store for him in a different locality, and with this end in view came to Mississippi in 1801, locating at Natchez. With the generosity that ever characterized his career through life, he gave up his share of his father's estate to his sister, on leaving home, and therefore on his arrival in Mississippi, which was then an almost unbroken wilderness, he was absolutely without means. He soon succeeded in obtaining employment with an uncle, Abijah Hunt, who was a member of the firm of Hunt & Smith, one of the largest business houses in Natchez, and the salary he received for his first year's service was $300. His services were found to be so valuable at the end of this time that he was reengaged with an increased salary of $500 per year, during which time he displayed such shrewd business views, such ability, tact and judgment that he was made manager of the entire establishment, which at that time had several branch houses in adjacent counties, and was paid a salary of $3,000 per year. He was offered a partnership in the business at that time, but declined it. After filling this position with fidelity to the interests of his uncle he, with the consciousness of having performed every duty to the best of his ability, at the expiration of several years became impressed with the belief that there were better things in store for him, and after the death of his uncle Abijah Hunt, who was killed in a duel by one Poindexter in 1812, he turned his attention to other avenues of business. He came to Jefferson county, Miss., and began opening up a large plantation on Cole's creek at Woodlawn. By the use of all his mental as well as physical faculties, he became immensely wealthy, his land amounting to several thousand acres and his slaves, and those of his family, numbering seventeen hundred, whom he used to an excellent advantage in his extensive cotton fields. In direct opposition to the saying that "the more we have the more we want," Mr. Hunt was the soul of generosity and scattered his wealth with a liberal hand wherever it was needed. By his influence and support Oakland college was established, and to this institution he donated at different times over $175,000, his last bequest amounting to $50,000. He was a warm advocate of the colonization of the negro, and one of his last gifts was $50,000 for this purpose. He also gave most generously to the church; donated the site and contributed generously to the erection of the Presbyterian church at Rodney. The poor, sick and afflicted always received generous treatment at his hands, for his sympathy for the sufferings of humanity was profound, and to the recounting of their woes he lent a ready ear, his purse being at their command. He was, in truth, the poor man's friend, and that he was one of nature's noblemen can not be denied. He was married twice, his first wife being Mary Calvit, daughter of Thomas Calvit, one of the largest planters in the county. His second union was to Miss Ann Ferguson, daughter of George and Jane (Dunbar) Ferguson, of Adams county. Both Mrs. Hunt and her mother were born in Mississippi, and her union with Mr. Hunt resulted in the birth of thirteen children, four sons and three daughters of which grew to manhood and womanhood: Abijah (who died leaving a wife and children), Mary Ann (deceased wife of James Archer, whose sketch appears in this history), George F. (deceased, a sketch of whom also appears herein), Catherine (deceased, a former wife of William S. Balfour), Charlotte (wife of George M. Marshall, of Adams county), Andrew (who died at the age of twenty-one years), Dunbar (whose name heads this biography) and Elizabeth (the deceased wife of William F. Ogden, of New Orleans). David Hunt died on the 18th of May, 1861, soon after the firing on Fort Sumter. Mr. Hunt was a strong Union man, was very much opposed to secession and, when he heard of the firing on Fort Sumter, gave it as his dying conviction that it was not possible for the South to succeed, and on his deathbed said to a friend and neighbor: "I know too well the strength of both sections. Mark the words of a dying man, they will wipe us out." By his innumerable acts of generosity and kindness he had endeared himself to the hearts of many, and it was with deep and universal lamentation that the news of his death was received, gloom being cast over the entire community. He was always prompt, industrious, efficient and conscientious, and, possessing superior business qualifications, clear head and excellent practical common sense, he was much respected by his associates and soon became one of the honored and influential residents of the county. His social and domestic attachments were very strong, his friendship sincere and true and the grasp of his hand warm and cordial. Of him it might be said:

"His life is gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world: This is a man."

BIOGRAPHICAL AND HISTORICAL

His widow survived him several years, dying in November, 1874. Dunbar Hunt was born in Jefferson county, Miss., November 14, 1840, next to the youngest of his parents' family, and, as he possessed a naturally bright intellect, his father determined to give him good advantages and he was put to school in Oakland college, from which institution he graduated in May, 1860, delivering the valedictory address of his class. After the death of his father, in connection with James Archer, his brother-in-law, took charge of the estate, and when it was divided in 1867 Dunbar Hunt remained with his mother at the homestead (Woodlawn) and here made his home up to 1875, when he took up his abode in the city of Baltimore, Md., where he has since made his home. He owns a fine cotton plantation in the western part of Jefferson county, containing twenty-two hundred acres of bottom and hill land; a plantation of twenty-five hundred acres in Issaquena county, with about twelve hundred acres under cultivation, and also real estate in Fargo, Dak., and in Florida. He inherits his father's admirable facilities for business and, being shrewd and far-seeing, perceived that the raising and fattening of stock for the market on his broad acres would be a profitable investment, and he ships from two hundred to three hundred head annually, he being the first cotton planter to successfully prosecute this business. He was married in Baltimore on the 4th of June, 1867, to Miss Leila Lawrence Brent, a daughter of Robert J. and Matilda S. Brent, the latter's mother being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hager, the first settlers of Hagerstown, Md. Mrs. Hunt was born, reared and educated in Baltimore, and there and in Mississippi their only daughter, Miss Anita Dunbar Hunt, has been principally reared, although the greater part of the last three years has been spent in Europe. Miss Anita is a talented young lady, graceful and accomplished and devotes much of her time to the study of the languages and music. The winter of 1890 Mrs. Hunt and her daughter spent in Paris, the latter perfecting herself in music and French, and this winter is devoting her time and attention to music and German in Berlin. Mrs. Hunt and her daughter are members of the Episcopal church, but Mr. Hunt is a Presbyterian. In social life he is much admired and liked for his excellent conversational powers and agreeable manners, and all are inspired with ease and confidence in his presence. Kind, generous and hospitable, he wins friends and rarely loses them. In the domestic circle he is a model husband and father; is devoted to his family and makes the happiness and comfort of his wife and child his chief aim and object in life. His own happiness and comfort have not made him selfish, and he is keenly alive to the sufferings or misfortunes of others, and no one has ever appealed to him in vain for consolation or succor.

George R. Hunt, planter, Como, Miss., is one of the pioneers of Mississippi, having made his advent into this state in 1837, and into Panola county in 1842. He was originally from Elbert county, Ga., and his father, James Hunt, was a native of the same state. The mother, Mary (Vassor) Hunt, was born in Virginia. After their marriage the parents moved to South Carolina, where the mother received her final summons, and the father afterward removed to north Alabama. He subsequently located in Monroe county, Miss., and there his death occurred in 1864, at the age of eighty years. He was a very active politician and an old line whig, but never aspired to office of any kind. He was a man of brilliant mind, whose intellectual powers were surpassed by those of only a few men of his day, and had he chosen the law and polities for his profession, his career would indeed have been a brilliant one. He would have made for himself a name and fame that the state of his adoption would have been proud to have had recorded in the annals of her history. His kindness of heart, his social and genial disposition, and his many acts of charity to the poor and friendless, the widow and the orphan, won for him a name in the community in which he lived that will shine when the records graven on monuments of marble to perpetuate the memory of the deeds of the daring soldier and the illustrious statesman shall have faded and the monuments themselves shall have crumbled into dust. He was a Mason in high standing and a man of unswerving fidelity, integrity, firmness and fixedness of purpose. He had great will power, and he was an honest man—"the noblest work of God." The five children of this worthy man were named in the order of their births as follows: Sarah A., wife of the late John E. Maddox; Mary E., single, resides at home; George R.; Emily, deceased, was the wife of William P. Fuller; and Rebecca, deceased, was the wife of William C. Banks. After the death of his wife Mr. Hunt married again, and became the father of two children: James E., died in 1865 from exposure during the war in the Confederate army, and Augusta J., wife of the late John B. Cox, of Monroe county. Early in life George R. was allowed by his father to work for himself, and as a consequence, when twenty-one years of age, he had made quite a start, which he invested in land and negroes. He settled in Panola county in 1842, on three hundred and twenty acres of land, given him by his father, and this now comprises a part of the fine plantation of eight hundred acres owned by Mr. Hunt. About one-half of this is under a good state of cultivation and yields large returns in cotton and corn. Mr. Hunt is also the owner of nineteen hundred acres of fine bottom land in Sunflower county. He has been very successful and has been one of the foremost planters of the county. About 1889 he had a severe spell of sickness, from which he has never fully recovered, and which prevents him from looking after his business with bis wonted energy. However, he has but to make his wishes known, and they are faithfully carried out. Mr. Hunt has never married, but is a gallant champion and great admirer of the fair sex. He is held in high esteem by all who know him, is a liberal giver to all worthy enterprises and is active in all matters of moment. He has never had trouble nor disagreement with any one except once. He was a whig, when the whig party existed, but now he is a stanch democrat in his political principles. Socially, he is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and is probably the oldest Mason in the county. He was one of the founders and charter members of Friendship lodge No. 127, of Como, and is also a member of Walker chapter, No. 28. He has held all the offices in both these lodges, and has been a delegate several times to the grand lodge of Mississippi. He is a strict observer of the Sabbath day, and is a full believer in the Christian religion, and has always contributed liberally to the support of schools and churches.

Dr. James M. Hunt, referred to in the life of his father-in-law, Col. E. G. Cooke, was more than an ordinary man. When he graduated at Tulane medical college, New Orleans, Dr. Warren Stone was so pleased with the young physician that he employed him as assistant in his infirmary. Dr. Stone's recommendation to Judah P. Benjamin, Confederate secretary of war, secured for Dr. Hunt a position in the medical department of the army in advance of others of the same age. He was in charge of the White Sulphur Springs, Va., occupied by Confederate sick and wounded in great numbers. After the war he practiced at Vicksburg, where he had been raised. He was the leading surgeon in that city, so conceded by his professional colleagues. William Hunt (deceased) was born in Massachusetts, near Boston, in 1801, and was a son of William and Mary Hunt, both of whom died when William, Jr., was but four years of age. The latter was taken to Ohio in the family of an aunt, Mrs. Brooks, resided there until twelve years of age, and then embarked as a sailor. He went to New Orleans and thence to Natchez, reaching that city in 1817. There he was employed in the banking business and was connected with some of the early institutions of that city. About 1822 or 1823 he came to Washington county, Miss., located about seven miles below Greenville, and was one of the earliest settlers. He opened up a magnificent estate of over three thousand acres and built a fine residence, which was afterward known as La Grange. This and the Ridge place, which he also purchased, he improved and made the choicest in this section. He was the early promoter of the levee system, and was one of the most prominent men of his time. In 1836 he married Miss Prudence Blackburn, of Kentucky, and daughter of George and Julia (Flurior) Blackburn. Mr. Blackburn was a Baptist preacher, and died soon after his daughter's marriage. To Mr. and Mrs. Hunt were born twelve children, four now living: William G. (died in infancy); George B. (died in 1873) was married; William E.; Julia (died in infancy); Mary E. (died in infancy); David F.; Lizzie (was the wife of F. Chinu, a lawyer at Frankfort, Ky., and died leaving four daughters); Catherine, widow of Mr. Stone, died in 1885, leaving four daughters and a son; John, (died in infancy); Churchman (died at the age of nine years); Prudence (wife of Russell Rodman, of Frankfort, Ky.); and Alice (wife of Claude Johnson, chancery clerk, of Washington county. They have two children.) Mr. Hunt died in 1866, and in full communion with the Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Hunt is still living, and is a worthy member of the same church.

Capt. W. E. Hunt, president of the board of Mississippi levee commissioners, Greenville, Miss. The remote ancestors of the Hunt family were of English origin, and three brothers of this family emigrated from England to the United States at a very early period. From them, it is supposed, sprang all the Hunts now residing in the United States. Capt. W. E. Hunt was born in Washington county, Miss., in 1840, and is the third in order of birth of twelve children born to William and Prudence B. (Blackburn) Hunt, the parents natives of Massachusetts and Kentucky, respectively. The father was left an orphan when but a boy, and with an elder brother, Oliver, moved to the Blue Grass state where the latter located. William came to Mississippi, was married in Washington county, and engaged in farming on a very extensive scale. He opened up a great deal of land, was one of the pioneers of Washington county, and his home, at La Grange, was one of the finest in the county. He was a worthy member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and a liberal contributor of the same. He was also a member of the board of supervisors, was early connected with the levee board, and was likely the originator of the cotton tax. He died in 1863. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity. Capt. W. E. Hunt was reared in his native county, educated in the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and was in the senior class at the breaking out of the war. He threw aside his books to enlist in company D, Twenty-eighth Mississippi regiment and was promoted step by step to the position of captain. His company participated in some of the most prominent engagements of the war: Atlanta, all the engagements of Hood's retreat, and was in General Forrest's division in Georgia at the time of the surrender. After the war Mr. Hunt returned to the parental roof and with his father went to the Blue Grass state, where he remained for a short time. From there he went to Texas, secured the services of his old hands, and then returned to Mississippi, Washington county, where he reengaged in planting. He is now the owner of about five thousand acres of land in several plantations, is constantly opening up new tracts, and has twenty-five hundred acres under cultivation. He owns a plantation known as the Mound place, and on this there are twenty-two Indian mounds which are the most extensive system of mounds in this section. They are built mainly in a circle surrounding a large central mound. In overseeing his large plantations Mr. Hunt does not lose sight of the stock industry and raises fine Jersey cattle, Norman horses and many mules. He was elected sheriff of Washington county in 1865, and so ably and well did he fill this position that he continued its incumbent for

The San Felipe had a very short career after this engagement. I can find no further mention of her in any history; but Edward Hall says in a letter to Stephen F. Austin that the San Felipe went in pursuit of a Mexican armed vessel and was lost in Matagorda Bay, that the heavy cannon had been saved and was on Bird Island, and that he had heard from Matagorda that the schooner William Robbins sailed from there on the 13th with the intention of picking up the gun and taking it to the Brazos.<sup>1</sup> It seems, however, that the San Felipe was only aground, and not wrecked. In a letter addressed to the General Council by Thomas F. McKinney, dated November 11, he stated that they succeeded in getting the schooner off, and that, in company with the William Robbins she would go at once to New Orleans. He said that on last Thursday, while the San Felipe lay on the beach, she exchanged several shots with a Mexican vessel, and he thought that some shot hit the Mexican, which put to sea.<sup>2</sup> Nothing further can be found relative to her, except a resolution of the General Council of January 17, 1836, by which R. R. Royall was appointed agent to take charge of and secure the wreck of the schooner and whatever belonged to her, then lying on the beach in or near Paso Cavallo and report to the Government.<sup>3</sup>

Meanwhile, Captain Thompson and his Lieutenant O'Campo were carried to New Orleans and in January, 1836, they were tried on a charge of piracy in the Federal District Court, the suit being termed, "The United States vs. Thompson."<sup>4</sup> New Orleans sympathy was largely with Texas, and the excitement seems to have reached the attorneys on both sides. P. Soulé, one of Thompson's attorneys, and H. Carleton, United States District Attorney, passed the lie between them, and threw at each other inkstands, books, etc., for which Judge Harper of the United States District Court sentenced them each to six hours imprisonment. The jury sat on the case one whole night, and brought in a verdict to acquit O'Campo. It was not able to agree in Thompson's case, and the court ordered a new trial. Mr. Carleton thereupon, with leave of the court, entered a nolle prosequi, and the prisoners were discharged.<sup>1</sup>

The New Orleans Courier<sup>2</sup> said concerning the trial. "The issue of the suit . . . is indeed a very remarkable one—such, it may be said, as never happened before—the pirates set at liberty and the Attorneys committed to jail." The Commercial Bulletin<sup>3</sup> gave the following account of it:

On Saturday last, the Judge of the United States District Court of this city, having ordered the commitment of the District Attorney and of Mr. Soule, in consequence of an altercation which took place between those gentlemen during the trial of Thomson, a large number of the friends of the District Attorney visited him during his short confinement.

While they were assembled in the room where the District Attorney was confined, Dr. Archer, one of the Commissioners from Texas, addressed Randell Hunt, Esq., the assistant Counsel of the District Attorney in the trial of Thomson, in a very eloquent manner, expressing his own satisfaction and that of his fellow-citizens of Texas, for the able and powerful address of Mr. Hunt delivered to the Jury in that cause, and for his bold and righteous vindication of the cause of Texas in her present struggle for Civil Liberty, and concluded by saying that his fellow-citizens could give no adequate compensation to his efforts, and his expression of those sentiments, but they desired his acceptance of some testimonials of their approbation and esteem. He then presented Mr. Hunt in the name of the Citizens of Texas, with a very splendid Gold Lever, the most valuable that could be found in this city, engraved inside the case, with the following inscription: "Presented by the Citizens of Texas to Randell Hunt, Esq., in testimony of their esteem of his exalted talents, and eloquent vindication of the cause of Truth, Justice and Civil Liberty." This, with a very superb cane and some other valuable jewels, were received by Mr. Hunt, and on receiving them with a letter, which we have inserted below, he made a very appropriate and eloquent reply.

<sup>1</sup>Yoakum (I, 356) says Thompson was acquitted. This is not so; an acquittal would imply that the San Felipe had erred in capturing him, which a withdrawal of the charge does not necessarily imply. Thompson had a bad case to defend, as he could not produce his commission at the trial; but it is to Mexico's credit that she nevertheless sustained him.

Randell Hunt, Esq.

New Orleans, Jan. 16, 1836.

Dear Sir—The undersigned respectfully request your acceptance of the enclosed, as a slight testimonial of their personal esteem, and an expression of their admiration of the able and eloquent address delivered to the Jury by yourself last evening—of your powerful effort in the cause of truth and Justice, and last, not least, the warm and heartfelt expression of your sympathies for their oppressed and struggling country and your righteous vindication of their conduct in the present crisis. That the most brilliant success may attend your career, and the talents and learning which you possess ever be engaged in as just and holy a cause as the one you have so eloquently sustained, whether it be to shield the innocent, or punish the guilty—and that you may reap a rich reward in your own heart, and the approbation of your fellow citizens, is the sincere prayer of

New Orleans, Jan. 17, 1836.

Gentlemen—I acknowledge with the deepest sensibility, and the most unfeigned thanks, the receipt of your letter, and of the testimonials which accompany it.

When I consented to act with the District Attorney in the prosecution of Thompson, I did so with a single regard to the principles of truth, and justice, and liberty, and in the expectation of receiving no other reward than the consciousness of an honorable effort to serve my country on that occasion, to the best of my abilities. Judge then of my surprise, pleasure and pride I have experienced at the thanks, commendation and kindness heaped upon me by you all of whom are gentlemen of the highest respectability for private worth, and many of whom are destined to fill some of the brightest pages of the history of these times; it is an honor of which the most distinguished man of this age might well feel proud.

If the defence of the principles of liberty be, as I feel assured, one of the highest duties of the profession to which I belong, I shall never cease to rejoice that that defence, in connection with the cause of Texas, became a part of my duty on the occasion to which you have adverted. A native American, I cannot but feel the deepest interest in the success of a people, connected with us by the ties of a common origin, and a common regard for equal rights, and bravely struggling for constitutional liberty. God speed the noble work!

Accept, gentlemen, once more my acknowledgements for the testimonials of esteem with which you have honored me, and receive in return my best wishes for your individual happiness, and the welfare of your country.

I am, gentlemen, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

RANDALL HUNT.

Thus happily and amidst rejoicing, was closed the incident of the Correo and the San Felipe.<sup>1</sup>

II. ORGANIZATION OF THE NAVY.

At a mass meeting held at Columbia, August 15, 1835, a committee of fifteen persons was appointed to prepare an address to the municipalities of Texas, asking them for co-operation in a call for a consultation of all Texas. The address requested that each municipality should elect five delegates to meet at Washington, on the 15th of October. On this date only thirty-two members were present; these not being sufficient for a quorum, the meeting was adjourned to November 1. By the 3rd of November fifty-five members had assembled at San Felipe instead of Washington. This consultation was authorized to organize a government, and to provide ways and means for carrying on the war. A provisional government was formed, in which Henry Smith was appointed governor and James W. Robinson lieutenant governor.<sup>2</sup>

One of the very first matters receiving the attention of the Consultation was the proper protection of the sea coast. As it was impossible to create a navy in a day, it was determined to issue letters of marque and reprisal; and it was hoped that by having numerous privateers cruising upon the Texas coast, not only would

Hi-

Thanks for the NC will of Anne Hunt Greene. Gets more and more interesting. I think Syd and I will both tie into Old Gen Greene before we are through. These names cross too many times for some connection somehow not to be made

Note: Jeremiah Greene Sr m Joannan Hunt
(my 5th great grand parents)

Syd's great grandfather and Jefferson Davis were first cousins ??-and have about decided that if he is or was it was off the Ann D. Collins line, for none of the other lines of his family have not heard the story-and I think it would be something they would have remembered. But know one knows about Ann D. Collins parents.

Note: The John Knight as wit. of the Will of Anne Hunt Greene!!!
(I might have to claim him after all.)

Note: Charles Gary b ca 1733 m Patience West (Syd's 4th great grand parents.
The West also married into the Green's, Hunt's, and Davis's.

The Dr. William Edwin Mathews line I have already sent to you of Syd's family. I am to receive more on the Gideon Harris line when Hettie Wall Kimball gets back from the Orient.

I now have the last 2 pages of the Collins Deaths 1903-1940 in Texas-and found this Strickland listed on the page with my Custer

Thanks again-Will see you

Billie

RECORD OF WILLS OF GRANVILLE COUNTY, N. C.
ALSO INVENTORIES, ADMINISTRATORS' ACCOUNTS,
AND DIVISION OF ESTATES - BOOK 7, 1808-1816

INTRODUCTION

This book is a continuation of Abstracts of the Wills and Estate Records of Granville County, North Carolina, 1746-1808, published in 1973. As indicated in that volume, the material was abstracted and typed by the late Zae Hargett Gwynn but she was unable to publish it before her death. Her manuscript has been copied word for word for offset printing.

No doubt Mrs. Gwynn would have polished her material before putting it into print. And possibly she could have found inconsistencies which she would have hanged or corrected. But it would be impossible for anyone who did not do the abstracting to attempt to make any alterations. Therefore, this writer has only prepared an index for the book and performed the other tasks incidental to publication.

Other works on Granville County that have been published from Mrs. Gwynn's copious notes include Abstracts of the Wills and Estate Records of Granville County, North Carolina, 1746-1808 (1973), Abstracts of the Early Deeds of Granville County, North Carolina, 1746-1765 (1974), and Kinfolks of Granville County, North Carolina, 1765-1826 (1974).

Vows are repeated

The wedding of Kathryn Elizabeth Martin and Daniel Todd Hunt, Lt. j.g., both of Jacksonville, Fla., was solemnized in a double ring, candlelight ceremony with full military honors on Feb. 16 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Pascagoula.

Monsignor Joseph P. Mercier officiated at the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Bernard Farrell.

Parents of the nuptial couple, both officers in the United States Navy, are Mr. and Mrs. George E. Martin Jr. of Pascagoula and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hunt.

Music was provided by Mrs. Martha Delmas at the organ and Kevin Benefield, who sang and accompanied himself on the guitar.

An arched candelabra of 15 lighted tapers and two seven-branched candelabra cast a glow on massed arrangements of golden mums and rust gladioli used at the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore traditional white fashioned with a natural waist. The bodice, re-embroidered with seed pearls, featured a stand-up collar and full bishop sleeves. The softly draped skirt swept to a chapel length train, and her chapel-length veil of illusion was outlined with a scalloped lace motif, echoing that of the dress. She carried a cascade of white silk roses, carnations and greenery tied with white satin streamers.

Suzanne Davis of Jacksonville was honor attendant and bridesmaids were Michelle Wells and Donna Martin, sisters of the bride, and Eleanor Cannon of Baton Rouge, La.

The attendants wore two-tiered rust gowns with high necklines, accented with rust and camel.

Ensign Gene Christian was best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Lt. Edward Alder, Lt. j.g. Charlie Martin and Lt. j.g. Dillard George III, all of Jacksonville; Lt. j.g. Paul Brown of New Orleans, and Ensign Thomas Destafrey of Pensacola.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Martin wore a two piece ensemble with a lace jacket, all in shades of heather gray. Mother of the bridegroom chose a frock of peach silk.

Lt. j.g. and Mrs. Daniel Todd Hunt

As the couple left the church, they passed beneath the traditional arch of swords, and were introduced for the first time as Lt. j.g. and Mrs. Daniel Todd Hurt.

Among those assisting at the reception, which followed at the Pascagoula Country Club, were Linda Anderson, Mary Guardia and Carolyn Martin, sister of the bride, all of Pascagoula.

Following the wedding trip to the Yucatan Peninsula of Mexico, the couple is at home in Jacksonville, Fla., where both are assigned to the Naval Air Station.

On the eve of the wedding, parents of the bridegroom hosted a rehearsal dinner at LaFont Inn where members of the nuptial party and their families were entertained.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Janet Meeks and Ms. Susan Carroll of Tupelo; Ms. Yvonne Waters of Hattiesburg; Ms. Kathy Long of Quitman; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Picou of Houma, La.; Charles Strickland, Linda Velardi and Florence Partin of Jacksonville, Fla.; Ms. Nancy Hunt of Phoenix, Ariz.; Mark Wey of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Viola Mann of Coventry, R.I.; Mrs. Marian Mann of New York, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Jones of Oxion Hill, Md.; Ms. Linda Bonitalebus of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ferguson and Mrs. Richard Roare of Arbita Springs, La.; the Paul Delmas family, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Martin Sr. and the T. Rasmussens, all of Grand Bay, Ala.

Al Hunt

Al Hunt is a master barber with his own shop in Gautier. Hunt has been cutting hair for about 20 years. He has clients as young as 1 and as old as 87. In his time as a barber he's seen many fads and different styles. "Some styles are more challenging," he said. "I was glad when simple short styles were back." Hunt said cutting hair now is a bit easier than it was in the 80s. "Everyone keeps it pretty simple," he said. Hunt said he always wanted to be a barber. His uncle was one and he was fascinated with what he called the "art of hair cutting" as a teenager. Now, he enjoys being his own boss and meeting different people in the community. Hunt said people like to talk about all kinds of things in his chair, from sports to politics to what's going on in Gautier. He claims the conversation never gets heated but occasional disagreements pop up. Hunt, the father of four grown kids, said when he's not working he likes to relax, go walking or go for bike rides.
